President's Report

President's Report

Many times I have written about the need for volunteers to keep the club running. Without volunteers we are unable to organize the functions that bring in the money to keep our club running.

Through the years society has changed, expectations have changed and as discussed so many times before, "the volunteer" tends to be an endangered species.

A while ago I was reading through old Neerlandia magazines and I read about the parties, the get-togethers and all the other social functions that used to be organized for Neerlandia members by Neerlandia members. Reading through years of magazines, the same names of active people kept popping up. Not too many but still a few of those special people are still active in the club and I admire those people for whom the club is not only a second home but who feel that they, the members, have an obligation towards the club rather than the other way round.

The Neerlandia Constitution created the possibility of acknowledging these extraordinary members in the constitution.

4.1 Life Members may, in recognition of conspicuous service to the Society, be elected ... etc etc.

The longer I work with Neerlandia and work for the future of Neerlandia, the more I understand how much personal effort was made by the Life Members. Because of their relentless efforts, Neerlandia is still standing.

Currently Neerlandia has nine Life Members, people who unconditionally gave (and many still do) their time and their energy to the benefit of the Club. This year it is 45 years ago that Society Neerlandia was established. To celebrate this fact and to recognize Neerlandia's Life Members, the Committee has decided that as of next year Life Members will have free membership and as of 1 April 2014 Life Members will have free admission to any function organized by Neerlandia for its members. This, the Committee thinks, is the proper way to say Thank You to those volunteers who went the extra mile and who dedicated their time to the club. Without our Life Members there would not be a Neerlandia 2014, let alone a Neerlandia Mark II.

I am certain that Membership agrees that a gesture like this to the Neerlandia Life Members is an apt way to celebrate the Society's 45th birthday.

Dear Members,

First of all I would like to share an e-mail I received from John Hengst of the Canberra Dutch Club.

Hi Pieter,

I take great pleasure in congratulating you on being awarded OAM for services to the Dutch community in WA. It must be tremendous to be recognised for something that you loved doing.

I would also like to thank Gerard Woerlee and Lou Dingjan, whose articles I gladly pirated for inclusion in the Canberra Dutch Club Courier.

As far as the criticism of Gerard Woerlee by someone from the East, the same was directed at me. However, a short email to this particular gentleman put things right – we do this to entertain, not write scientific papers.

Once again congratulations and a big thank you.

Could you please pass this onto the two gentlemen in question as well.

Regards,

John Hengst

Secretary CDC (and Editor)

Isn't it nice and rewarding for our magazine contributors to receive such appreciation from an editor of the Canberra Dutch Club in the ACT. Little things like this make it all worthwhile.

Changes at Neerlandia

When I put the April birthday list in the magazine, I realised how much our membership has changed over the last few years. Once I knew most of the Neerlandia members personally, but presently about 30% of the members in the April birthday list are unknown to me personally.

This is a tremendously good sign because it means that Neerlandia is getting a blood transfusion of new members and that other important changes are happening.

One other good thing worth mentioning is that the old established clubs, like the DJVV and Card Clubs, which are slowly diminishing in numbers, are allowed go on with their usual club meetings without any interference whatsoever.

The infusion of younger members and the fact that a lot of new and different functions are being organised by the Committee for those newer members, is very pleasing news as well.

I only do hope that enough young volunteers will come forward to make those new functions work. But let us face it, if the new members are unable to find the time to volunteer their service, well hey, they just have to put up with some of the oldies that are still willing to help out with volunteer work, as they are always willing to put their heart and soul into the club to help it survive.

But let us all take all that is happening as a very positive sign. Neerlandia's revival is knocking at our door. So let us all enjoy and encourage it.

World Cup Soccer.

The Netherlands World cup team had a setback in their preparation for the upcoming World Cup in Brazil, when they lost 2-0 against France in an away game.

Things did not go the Dutch way as anticipated when halfway through the match the Dutch goalie brought down an opponent, was red-carded, sent off and the resulting penalty was put away, 1-0 for France.

Although bravely battling on with 10 men, too many risks were taken and they finished losing the game 2-0.

Another worrying factor for the Dutch is that once again Robin van Persie is struggling to find form after coming back from a long-term injury. (Sounds a bit like the European championships 2 years ago all over again)

Some reports also say that he is unhappy at Manchester United.

On top of that the Dutch have also slipped to the 12th place on the world ranking list.

They now have 3 months left to sort themselves out.

Upcoming friendlies are against Ecuador on the 18th of May and against Wales on the 5th of June. But despite all that we are all looking forward to June when the real battle begins.

Assistants.

Having lost two assistant correspondence does not mean the end of the world.

Myself I will continue the series on Dutch towns as long as I can find enough interesting ones we have not used as yet.

Also Nanda has joined the team and will write about her impressions of life in Australia

De BoeKHoeK

Onze bibliotheek staat barstensvol lekkere, leuke en goede boeken, allemaal gedoneerd door de Nederlandse Community en liefdevol verzorgd door Thom & Mies.

Het boek van de maand april is:

De Kraamhulp

Door Esther Verhoef

Als Didi na een zware bevalling van haar eerste kindje aan bed is gekluisterd, is ze dolgelukkig met de hulp van de kraamverzorgster. De baby is lief en gezond, maar Didi's herstel gaat langzaam.

Miriam, werkzaam bij de politie Rotterdam, kan de plotselinge dood van haar broer niet verwerken. Ze vermoedt kwade opzet van zijn mooie weduwe Hennequin. Tijdens haar zoektocht naar Hennequins verleden groeit bij Miriam de overtuiging dat ze te maken heeft met een levensgevaarlijke psychopate. En juist deze vrouw heeft zich onmisbaar gemaakt in het jonge, kwetsbare gezin...

De kraamhulp beschrijft tien beslissende dagen uit het leven van drie jonge vrouwen. Kwetsbaarheid, wilskracht en moordlust vinden elkaar in een beklemmende, ontroerende pageturner: Esther Verhoef's engste thriller ooit.

Dit hele spannende boek is ook als e-Boek verkrijgbaar bij bol.com

De KooKHoeK

Nicole is de inspiratie voor de maandelijkse KooKHoeK. Zij is geboren en getogen in Nederland en komt uit een Nederlands-Indisch gezin. Eten, in de ruimste zin van het woord is haar passie: zij bereidt het en kweekt zelf vele van de ingrediënten; ze leest en zij schrijft erover - elke dag werkt zij met eten. Nicole heeft ons toestemming gegeven om haar blog als bron te gebruiken voor onze maandelijkse KooKHoeK, iets waar we heel erg blij mee zijn. Deze maand hebben eens iets heel anders gekozen: een pindasoep uit Suriname!

Misschien dat het weer nu nog een beetje te warm is hiervoor maar voor van de winter is dit een heerlijke opwarmer en een leuke afwisseling voor boerenkool met worst!

Surinaamse Pinda Soup

For the benefit of the non-Dutch readers, this recipe is in the English language

Pinda Bravoe with tomtom

1/2 teaspoon butter
1/2 cup of chopped onion
2 minced garlic cloves
2 chopped tomatoes
600 grams chicken meat in small pieces
200 gram soup beef

4 cups chicken stock

1 bay leaf

allspice to your liking

1 sprig of celery leaves

300 gram peanut butter

1 chili, sliced in length

1 banana

Melt butter in a small stockpot and sauté the chopped onion until translucent.

Add the minced garlic, then add the tomatoes.

Carefully stir for a couple of minutes or until tomatoes have softened.

Add the chicken meat and beef and give it a couple of stirs; add the chicken stock, the bay leaf, the allspice and the sprig of celery.

Simmer for 30 minutes; remove the bay leaf and discard.

Take the meat out and set aside, puree the soup. In a separate bowl, mix the peanut butter and one cup of soup until it's smooth.

Add it into the rest of the soup. Stir until the soup is homogenous, and return the meat to the soup. Add the chili and let it simmer for another ten minutes. Make sure the chili does not break or rip as the soup will be too hot to eat: the chili should add flavor and not heat.

Remove and discard the chili after ten minutes, taste the soup and adjust with salt and pepper. If you'd like it more spicy add some sambal.

To make tomtom peel a banana and boil it until it is soft. Remove it from the water and mash it with a fork. Add a pinch of salt and roll it into small balls, the size of a marble. Add one or two into each bowl of soup.

COMMITTEE

After many years of active work for the club, Louis Marcus has decided to retire from the Neerlandia Committee. On behalf of the Committee and Membership, we would like to thank Lou for the time he gave to the club. We would also like to wish him a happy and healthy retirement. Thank you Lou! Lou's departure means that the Neerlandia Committee now has two vacancies.

Shop report - A cheesy story

Recently we noticed that some pieces of cheese showed mold. This is caused by opening the fridge door too frequently and/or opening the door for too long. It would greatly help if you made your choice of fridge products quickly; it saves energy and it is better for the quality of the products.

Meanwhile, the mold has been removed from the affected cheese and the pieces are now selling for $2 less than the original price.

And, on the subject of cheese: we buy our Gouda and Leydse kaas from the European Food store. This shop imports all sorts of European food products from the countries of origin. We are therefore totally relying on shipments and customs. Most of the time there are no problems or delays, occasionally we may experience a bit of a hiccup. Recently the Gouda cheese has been unavailable but as soon as the cheese is back on the shelves in the European Food store, it will be available again in the Neerlandia Shop.

And now a fishy story

We are pleased that the new stock of fish appears to be the success it is. The herring has sold out but we still have plenty of smoked mackerel to keep up with our members' needs.

Update on other stock

Anne is currently on annual leave and don't we know it! As soon as she has returned, the shelves will be full of your favorite products again!

April is Orange

Please mark the following dates in your diary, your iPhone, your iPad or just remember:

25 April End of Month Drinks will be an orange affair. Come in your favorite Orange attire for a drink, a borrel and a chat.

26 April 2-5pm we will celebrate Koningsdag in the clubhouse. Details are elsewhere in this magazine. (see page 16)

26 April 7.30 – 11pm houden we een Oranje Nederlandse Kroegenavond. Zingen Zitten Zuipen - Het is Koningsdag! Kom gekleed in Oranje en doe mee.

3 Mei (onder voorbehoud) is het oranje feest van ADBC (Australia Dutch Business Club). Meer info volgt later op www.adbc.com.au

Report on a recently held function & EoMD

Kroegenavond 15 March

After the success of the initial kroegenavond, we decided to repeat the event in March. Unfortunately the majority of the people who attended the first night were not able to come due to other commitments, holidays and celebration of the Irish Saint Patrick's day. However, new people came along and again we had a great night. There was not as much singing as the February celebrations, but I am convinced everyone still had a great time. It was wonderful to meet some new people, and great to see everyone mingle straight away and making new friends.

The next Kroegenavond will be a King's Day celebration on Saturday 26 April. Put it in your agendas, find your orange gear and get ready for a good Dutch party - it promises to be a big weekend.

Laughter is still the best medicine

THE VICARS FALSE TEETH

A Pastor goes to the dentist for a set of false teeth. The first Sunday after he gets his new teeth, he talks for only eight minutes.

The second Sunday, he talks only for ten minutes.

The following Sunday he talks for 2 hours and 48 minutes.

Half the congregation was sound asleep by then when someone had the nerve to interrupt the pastor and got him down from the pulpit, the congregation asked him what was going on.

The Pastor explains about his new teeth and that on the first Sunday his gums hurt so bad he couldn't talk for more than 8 minutes. The second Sunday his gums still hurt and he could only talk for 10 minutes.

But this morning he put his wife's false teeth in by mistake and he just couldn't stop talking.

(Sorry Girls, but this is a true story.)

Unknown Airline - Brilliant desk staff.

An award should go to an Airlines desk attendant in Sydney some months ago for being smart and funny while making her point, when she was confronted by a passenger who probably deserved to fly as cargo.

A crowded flight was cancelled after a 767 was withdrawn from service. A single attendant was re-booking a long line of inconvenienced travellers.

Suddenly an angry passenger pushed his way to the desk. He slapped his ticket down on the counter and said: "I HAVE to be on this flight and it HAS to be FIRST CLASS".

The attendant replied: "I'm sorry, sir. I'll be happy to try to help you, but I've got to help these people first and I'm sure we'll be able to work something out."

The passenger was unimpressed. He asked loudly, so that the passengers behind him could hear: "DO YOU HAVE ANY IDEA WHO I AM?"

Without hesitating, the attendant smiled and grabbed her public address microphone and said: "May I have your attention, please, may I have your attention, please," her voice being heard clearly throughout the terminal.

"We have a passenger here at Desk 14 WHO DOES NOT KNOW WHO HE IS. If anyone can help him find his identity, please come to Desk 14."

With the folks behind him in line laughing hysterically, the man glared at the desk attendant, gritted his teeth and uttered a very rude personal expressive.

Without flinching, she smiled and said: "I'm sorry, sir, but you'll have to get in line for that too."

(For all Who Work With Rude Customers, isn't it a shame no one can actually do this without risking his or her job!)

No Driver's Licence?

I was sitting on my lawn sunning and reading when I was startled by a fairly late model car crashing through my hedge and coming to rest on my lawn. I helped the elderly driver out and sat him on a lawn chair.

"My goodness", I exclaimed: "you are quite old to be driving!"

"Yes", he replied: "I am old enough that I don't need a license anymore."

The last time I went to my doctor he examined me and asked if I had a driving licence. I told him yes and handed it to him. He took scissors out of a drawer, cut the licence into pieces and threw them in the wastebasket."

"You won't be needing this anymore", he said.

"So I thanked him most sincerely and left."

HOSPITAL BILL

A man suffered a serious heart attack while shopping in a store. The store clerk called 911 when they saw him collapse to the floor. The paramedics rushed the man to the nearest hospital where he had emergency open heart bypass surgery. He awakened from the surgery to find himself in the care of nuns at the Catholic Hospital.

A nun was seated next to his bed holding a clipboard loaded with several forms, and a pen. She asked him how he was going to pay for his treatment. "Do you have health insurance?" she asked.

He replied in a raspy voice, "No health insurance."

The nun asked, "Do you have money in the bank?"

He replied, "No money in the bank." Do you have a relative who could help you with the payments?"

asked the irritated nun. He said: "I only have a spinster sister, and she is a nun." The nun became agitated and announced loudly: "Nuns are not spinsters! Nuns are married to God."

The patient replied: "Perfect. Send the bill to my brother-in-law."

It could happen

I went to the cemetery yesterday to lay some flowers on my wife's grave. As I was standing there I noticed 4 grave diggers walking about with a coffin,

An hour later and they're still walking about with it.

I thought to myself, they've lost the plot

Paddy says "Mick, I'm thinking of buying a Labrador."

"Really, ..." says Mick "Have you seen how many of their owners go blind?"

The girlfriend of his dreams.

Paddy thought his new girlfriend might be THE one, the woman of his dreams, the love of his life...

He began staying over at her place at weekends, which he thought was really nice, as he'd never had that kind of experience with any girl before.

Then one Friday evening, she came to the door dressed as a nurse. 'Mmm...', he thought: 'how nice'
The weekend after she greeted him in a French maid's outfit.

'Oh-ho,' he thought: 'this is interesting.'

But, when the next weekend she answered the door in a policewoman's uniform, he finally decided she had to go.

He realised that if she couldn't hold down a regular job, she was not the one for him.

The town of Hengelo

Hengelo, in the province of Overijssel

Flag & Coat of Arms

Hengelo is a town with a population of over 80,000. Its history goes as far back as 10,000 years, when people already lived on the same site. In the middle ages Hengelo consisted of only a handful of farms and by 1802 this had grown to about 200 farms and houses. The village, although not large, was a self-supporting community. The population only showed substantial growth during the last 125 years.

The people of Hengelo, besides farmers, were mainly employed by the textile, the metal and later on the chemical industries with all their associated activities.

Hengelo in Overijssel must not be confused with a small village called Hengelo in province of Gelderland.

Hengelo, Overijssel was never granted city rights as it was only a small village that only expanded in the 19th century after the industrial revolution. In the late 19th century it developed very rapidly especially after the construction of railway lines through the town and Hengelo became an important railway junction.

Hengelo also was the home town of Hengelo Bier, a local brewery.

Tourism

One of the most prominent buildings is the Lambertusbasiliek, a Roman basilica built in 1890 devoted to Saint Lambert.

Watermill De Oldemeule dates back to 1690

There is also an old water Mill in Oele called De Oldemeule, which dates back to 1690.

During the Second World War the mill was still in use to process grain, but after the war the mill went into decline. Now the mill is owned by the municipality of Hengelo, which renovated the mill in 1979 and it is now open to the public on Sundays during the summer months.

In the last couple of years new millers have been trained to operate the mill.

In the past there was also an oil mill, but this was demolished in 1900.

Lambertusbasiliek

History: Hengelo in the 16th en 17th century

In the 16th century Hengelo was small village and this did not change in the next century. When the Spanjards conquered the area in the late 16th century, arson and robbery by the Spanish army was the order of the day.

In 1595, not less than 43 houses were burnt to the ground, this was about 1/3rd of the whole town.

Meanwhile the farmers were concentrating on growing flax, the stems of the flax were spun into yarn and the yarn woven into textiles. It was in the wintertime that the women spun the yarn and the men did the weaving in special rooms of their farms. The woven products were often bleached alongside the waterways.

Hengelo in the 18th century

During the 18th century the farmers were producing more cloth than they needed and that was sold to travelling merchants. Then the merchant managed to get the farmers to work together in small workshops and this was the start of Hengelo's Textile industrie.

The industrial revolution

In 1830 Willem de Clerq, director of the "Nederlandse Handel Maatschappij," was asked by the Dutch King Willem I to investigate the setting up of a proper textile industrie in Overijssel. He investigated the issue and decided on Hengelo due to the weaving skills already there and the low cost of wages that were paid.

Onze Lieve Vrouwenkerk

Modern textile factories were then built with steam driven machinery. Not long after that, Hengelo became an important railway junction, with connections to the west, south and north and also east into Germany.

Soon other light and heavy industry followed and by 1900 the town had grown to 10,000 inhabitants.

The Salt Towers

Salt deposits were found way below the surface near Hengelo. The Koninklijke Nederlandse Zoutindustrie (Royal Dutch Salt Industry) extracted it between 1918 and 1963 and sold it under the name Jozo. They built wooden drilling derricks to cover the actual drill holes. To win the salt, water was first pumped into the ground. The salt dissolved in the water and was then pumped up again.

In the factory, which you see in the background in the picture, the water was evaporated and the salt remained.

This is one of the few original towers left, most have been replaced by small wooden barns. This one has been renovated and can be found in the southern part of Hengelo at the Boortorenweg.

Hengelo during the second world war.

Before the second world war the centrum of Hengelo was just like many other villages with houses, shops and farmlike buildings along narrow, winding streets.

However, from that scene there is nothing left. Towards the end of the war Hengelo was a main target for bombardments by the allies, due its important railway junctions and it's heavy industries.

The heaviest bombardments on the town took place om 6 & 7 October 1944 when the town centre was flattened and caused the death of 112 people. On the 3rd of April 1944 the town was liberatedby the allied armies.

Tuindorp 't Lansink. In 1911 the first stone was laid for a interesting housing project called Tuindorp 't Lansink. The idea for this housing complex came from Coen Stork and was based on a garden suburb where the workers, office staff and even directors would feel at home.

Modern shopping facilities

The modern town-centre offers a variety of shops. National retail chains together with many typical original quality shops guarantee pleasant shopping in all branches. Especially in the field of fashion the town has a sound reputation to maintain. Highly recommended is the open air market on Wednesdays and Saturdays on the main square in the town-centre, which is considered one of the best in the Netherlands.

Upcoming Kings Day 2014 Celebrations in Amsterdam

(Neerlandia will celebrate the very first Dutch Kings Day with various events on the 25th and 26th of April, details can be found elsewhere in this magazine. Following is an article from Amsterdam on how they are going to celebrate the day over there.)

In 2014, King's Day will be celebrated on Saturday, 26 April 2014. The Royal family will visit Amstelveen and De Rijp in Noord-Holland for the inaugural King's Day event. But King Willem-Alexander and Queen Maxima's three daughters - Amalia, Alexia and Ariane - will not be part of the royal family celebrating this first King's Day event.

(orange) as a show of pride for the Dutch Royal family, the House of Orange-Nassau.

Citywide street sale

As a city built on trade, Amsterdammers love to haggle and bargain. The vrijmarkt (literally 'free market') gives everyone and their mum the chance to sell their second-hand things on the streets and in the parks of Amsterdam, creating one of the world's largest flea markets.

And it's not only second-hand wares on offer - plenty of food stalls spring up to fuel your bargain hunting frenzy!

Family fun

Aside from children being able to try their hand at trading on King's Day, there are also plenty more activities taking place across the city for the young and young at heart including face-painting, games and sports events.

King's Night & Day parties

King's Day is a public holiday in the Netherlands but certainly not a day of rest. Tourists flock to Amsterdam to join the locals for a day of celebration.

Even overseas Expats are getting together to celebrate. Plans for the 2014 for Amsterdam are not yet set in stone, but the fun traditionally begins on the eve of the big day (King's Night) with the carnival atmosphere continuing throughout the city on King's Day.

DJs play for partying crowds on public squares, brightly decorated boats fill canals and live music spills onto streets from cafés and their terraces.

King's Day on the canals

Never has gridlock been so much fun!

On King's Day, thousands of brightly decorated boats pack the narrow Amsterdam canals. The next best thing to being on one of the boats is watching - and dancing - from one of the many bridges.

A bit of history about celebrating King's Day (formerly Queen's Day) in Amsterdam

King's Day (formerly Queen's Day) festivities invite locals and visitors alike to soak up Amsterdam's open-air fun. In the streets, canals, parks and everywhere in between, the city is bursting with orange as Amsterdammers enjoy the biggest street party of the year. Amidst orange-pride, live music, DJs, parties and a citywide street market, you'll find an electric atmosphere not to be missed.

The royal celebrations were first held on 31 August 1885 in honour of the birth of Queen Wilhelmina, and the Queen's Day (Koninginnedag) tradition was born.

After Wilhelmina's daughter (Juliana) succeeded to the throne in 1949, the day was changed to 30 April in accordance with the new Queen's birthday.

When she became queen, the now Princess Beatrix chose to retain the day in honour of her mother but as of 2014, King's Day will officially be celebrated on 27 April (the Dutch king's birthday). However, the event is traditionally not celebrated on a Sunday, which means that the first King's Day will be held on Saturday the 26th of April 2014.

The name may have changed slightly but the festive spirit of the day is sure to remain! You'll be treated to a sea of orange as everyone - and their pets - are covered head to toe in oranje

Profiel van Erna Luitjens

Barneveld is mijn geboorteplaats, bekend voor de kippen en Jan van Schaffelaar, die van de toren sprong. De eerste 19 jaar van mijn leven heb ik daar gewoond, waarna ik naar Utrecht verhuisde.

In 1983, net getrouwd, verhuisden we naar Perth omdat mijn man geoloog is.

Net voordat we zouden vertrekken waarschuwde de ambassade ons, dat het beter was om er nog eens goed over na te denken, want het ging niet zo goed met de economie en zeker niet in de mijnbouw industrie. We zijn toch gegaan. Binnen zes weken vonden we werk in Perth.

Anderhalf jaar later, Augustus 1984, verhuisden we voor een goeie baan naar Kalgoorlie, een waar avontuur. Het leek net of we in de Wild West waren terechtgekomen.

We werden erg goed opgevangen door de company, het werden vier leuke jaren en het gezin werd uitgebreid met twee jongens. Toen werd het tijd om de spullen weer op te pakken, we verhuisden helemaal naar Kambalda. Ook daar hebben we een goeie tijd gehad en werd een dochter (thuis) geboren. Na drie jaar gingen we weer terug naar Kalgoorlie, hetgeen de jongens een stad noemden want er was een hotel met drie etages!

Begin 1998 verhuisden we terug naar Perth en later dat jaar begon ik bij een kleine olie maatschappij met boekhouden, hetgeen ik nog steeds doe maar nu als "kleine zelfstandige zonder personeel" kzzp. Gelukkig blijft er wel wat vrije tijd over voor socialising, tuinieren, patchwork en fietsen.

De laatste jaren reis ik regelmatig terug naar Nederland, vooral sinds het overlijden van mijn vader drie jaar geleden.

Maakt niet uit welk seizoen het is als ik er ben, het is allemaal even mooi in de Achterhoek. Ook in die streek is het wel drukker geworden, toch kun je er nog goed genieten van de natuur.

Na ruim 30 jaar in Australië zijn er niet echt dingen die ik mis qua etenswaren, broodje kroket kan je immers bij de Nederlandse club eten, maar familie zal ik altijd blijven missen. Ik ben lid van een Nederlandse boekenclub, we lezen boeken van Nederlandse schrijvers zo blijf ik een beetje op de hoogte van de moderne Nederlandse "literatuur". Tot nog toe zijn er geen favoriete schrijvers bijgekomen. Een van de beste Nederlandse films is voor mij "Bruidsvlucht".

In 83 zijn we een keer bij Neerlandia geweest en eerlijk gezegd we vonden het niet zo leuk. Er was duidelijk een generatie kloof met de bezoekers van toen. Sind een jaar kom ik regelmatig naar de maandelijkse borrel voor een babbel, kroket en advocaat en dat "just hits the spot!"

Erna Luitjens

Toen en Nu

De keuken uit mijn kindertijd was altijd vol met mensen.

Er stond 'n warme kachel in, wat had je meer te wensen?

De was hing er te drogen en de worst aan een spijker, de koffie stond te pruttelen, waar was het leven rijker?

We zaten in ons keukentje met negen man te eten met soep vooraf en pudding toe, ik zal 't nooit vergeten. De afwas was het ergste niet, dan stonden we te zingen. 'N grote zinken teil, dat was ons bad, er waren ergere dingen.

De keukenmat werd opgerold we moesten het maar weten.

Want vader kwam van de markt met armen vol, we hadden weer te eten.

Brood was er altijd op de plank en een varken in de kelder.

Was 't vuil dan ging de dweil erdoor en alles was weer helder.

De keuken van onze kinderen, staat vol met apparaten. Het nieuwste van het nieuwste, maar je kunt er niet mee praten.

De was zit in de droger, in de vriezer zit het eten.

Het is ongekende luxe, als ik niet beter had geweten.

Ze eten in het keukentje, ja maar wie dat toch verzon?

'N twee minuten maaltijd, zo uit de magnetron.

De afwas die gaat in 't machien, daar zitten ze niet mee en zingen dat hoeft ook al niet meer, ze draaien een cd. Geen teil meer, maar een bubbelbad, 'n auto voor de deur.

Wie nou niet tevreden is, dat is een ouwe zeur.

Wij hadden al die dingen niet, maar toch wel ietsje meer.

'N kostbaarheid in 't leven, gezelligheid en sfeer.

Sunday Drive

On the 2nd of March the usual Sunday drive was held. We had exactly 25 players, which meant 6 playing tables and two people, who played 2 games each.

Several regulars could not make it on the day and Gerry Creemers, the usual organiser, was recuperating from a small operation, which meant that Piet Leeftang was asked to take charge, which for an old pro like him was no problem at all.

We welcomed back Riet Heyman after the recent loss of her husband Henk while Gerard Kluck and Corie van Os participated for the very first time.

The first players arrived shortly after 10 am in order to catch up with friends or just have a chat over a cup of coffee.

Meanwhile Thea de Koning, ably assisted by Freda Hovingh, were busy in the kitchen to ensure everyone was served with coffee and to prepare the lunches. This as usual was very much appreciated by all.

At 11.00 sharp the competition started and after 3 hours of fierce competition, the scorecards were checked and the winners were announced.

The runaway winner won by 536 points and the 2nd placed player was 210 points ahead of the 3rd

The prize winners were:

1st prize	Tony Liebrechts	7337 points
2nd prize	Nel Bakker	6801 points
3rd prize	Riet van Emden	6591 points

As you can see from the results it was "ladies day" as the men were nowhere to be seen. Congratulations to the placegetters and a message for the men to pull up their socks next month.

The next Sunday Drives will be held on Sunday the 6th of April and the one after that on Sunday the 4th of May. All the prizes were gift vouchers to be spent in our shop and Freda Hovingh, who was serving in the shop, made sure that they were well looked after. Thanks Freda.

Quite a few players just missed out on the third prize and to all those players: Better luck next time around!

Differences between The Netherlands & Australia

A 20-something year old migrants view on settling and building up a new life in Perth, Australia

Ok, so I've been in Australia for almost 2 years now and I do feel like I'm settled in and Perth has become my new home-town. However probably once a month you meet people that don't really understand that you've been here for a while and you don't consider yourself to be a tourist anymore. You get questions fired at you: 'How do you like Australia?' 'The weather must be a plus for you coming from The Netherlands?' 'What are the biggest differences between The Netherlands & Australia?' Here we go again I think to myself and my facial expression probably doesn't hide my slight irritation, but polite as ever I will answer the questions with a smile. But then I thought, what actually are the biggest differences between the two countries. Apart from the obvious answers like the weather, language and maybe food. I was thinking what else can I think of in terms of work-culture, drink-cultures and maybe even how people spend their free time.

So I thought time to make a little list, as I am a list person. I know this sounds like something that has already been done before, but different eyes notice different things. And so I might be able to open your eyes to think out of the box.

1. The prices, I won't be the first one to say this, but Australia is expensive. A 'vaasje bier' for 3 euros is really a European thing, sadly.
2. Work culture, casual Friday, really this is a thing in Australia was my first thought? Where in The Netherlands neat casual clothes are accepted in most offices, apart from the banks and law-firms of course. In Perth everyone has to wear business clothes to work apart from casual Friday. Where in The Netherlands it's accepted to wear neat but casual clothes to the office.

3. Drink-culture, yeah what should I say, I suppose the prices have a connection to the pre-drinks culture Australia has developed over the years. Although I do really miss having a drink in the 'kroeg'.

4. Coffee-culture, most Dutch people will notice the slightly fussy coffee culture in Perth. Which I must say does end up in a really nice cup of coffee, when you've finally figured out what kind of coffee to order.

5. English is very basic. I've found myself trying to explain to my Australian boyfriend multiple times that I had a 'gezellige' night. There simply is no word to describe what Dutch people mean with gezellig.

6. Wake up early! Australians really know how to wake up early. They seem to be morning birds, which after 2 years has finally started to make sense to me. Waking up early can be a great way to make the most out of your day. Or to meet some friends for breakfast. (Something I would never do in The Netherlands) Where going out for breakfast here is a big thing, in The Netherlands it doesn't really exist apart from maybe a cheap HEMA breakfast.

I write blogs on a regular basis about my life and views on Australia. If you are interested you can have a look at: <http://europeaninaustralia.blogspot.com.au/>

CODEBREAKER PUZZLE

How to play the Game:

A Codebreaker is a crossword puzzle with no clues! Every letter of the alphabet has been replaced by a number, the same number represents the same letter always.

The codes for 2 letters are revealed in this puzzle. Start with entering these letters throughout the puzzle and start guessing your first word. If you are unsure, use a pencil, then you can erase and start again.

In the last Codebreaker a big mistake crept in. The puzzle itself gave 2 letters, which were the right ones to start with. But underneath the puzzle the wrong letters were indicated. But once the words "Unusual" and "Enslave" were found, it was plain sailing. The solution for the March puzzle was as follows:

A=23; B=24; C=3; D=18;
E=14; F=5; G=16; H=8; I=12;
J=4; K=20; L=7; M=21; N=17;
